Tune: Fair Harvard

The shadows of even that fall in the West,
Bathing each scene in beauty and peace,
Bring to us many thoughts of a sad parting hour,
When our loved High School journey must cease.
We have now reached the goal which so long we have sought,
We have borne our tasks faithful and well,
But a feeling of sadness is dimming the joy,
As we gather to say our farewell.

As the swift years glide by on the fleet wings of time,
And we roam o'er the vast world so wide,
We will each try to live for the best things alway
Wheresoever our Leader shall guide.
Though our task may prove hard, and the pathway be long,
And our climb steep and rugged may seem,
We will cherish the best that is in us each day,
While we eagerly FOLLOW THE GLEAM.

Tune of 'Apple Laurie'

Farewell, farewell, dear classmates, Our parting hour is near; The world for us is calling, Its song is in my ear: lts song is in my ear. It beckons us along: Brief must be our parting message, In this our farewell song,

Our work has been a pleasure, As most of you well know, We'll keep it as a mem'ry. As from our school we go: As from our school we go, Work "Always Upward" true. And give dear old Scarboro High School The honor she is due.

Tune-"Farewell"

Fair haven of our school days, farewell;
To dear old golden rule days, farewell:
All of our dreams, all of our schemes for you,
Deep in our hearts there is a hope that some day they'll
come true;

That by your careful guidance we may Win glorious fame and fortune some day. Alma Mater true, we must say adieu, And now, dear school, we'll all say farewell.

Tune-"Memories"

Memories, memories of dear old Scarboro High, With your colors red and white And your will to do or die, Memories and victories of teams who gave their all, With unfaltering heart, we'll "act well our part." Wherever our path may call.

TUNE—"Fair Harvard"

To the careless years spent in these halls of our youth,

To our sorrows and joys that are past,

To the books now outworn in our search after truth Do we bid au revoir now at last.

To our classmates so dear, to the treasures we've shared And to those we are leaving behind—

Here's our heartiest blessing and fervent good cheer, In our hearts you'll be ever enshrined.

Now we ponder our voy'ge o'er life's unresting sea And set sail on the wide ocean blue.

Tho' the storm-winds of life blow us far from our course,
To our standards we'll ever be true.

Seniors, now we must part. May the echoes of song
In our melody bind us tonight.

To our teachers and classmates our ode bids farewell As we turn to the dawning of life.

Tune: ALOHA OE

Bright the harbor gleams with friendly light As we linger in our parting lay, But the distant harbor lures us on; We must now speed our craft upon its way.

Chorus

Then outward bound our prow is turned, Still onward howe'er distant currents tend, To guide our bark o'er many unknown seas, 'Till sails are furled at journey's end.

We have builded well each hidden part, We have laid each timber staunch and true; As we framed our craft in by-gone years, That must now launch upon the trackless blue.

Now the shores recede, the lights grow dim, The well-known landmarks slowly pass, As, with anchors weighed and sails unfurled, From the loved port of home we turn at last.

Chorus.

Tune: Londonderry Air

The hills were sweet with spring, our Alma Mater, When here we turned, scarce heeding wisdom's call; But day by day thy gentle arms have drawn us, And bound us to thee, sons and daughters all. Oft has the path seemed long, as hearts grew weary, Oft has the goal in distance lured us on, Yet we have faltered not, but striven harder To reach the noontide dimly promised by the dawn.

Our four short years are gone, and we are standing At this sad place where we must say farewell To friendships wrought within each well-loved classroom, With aching hearts we break their magic spell. No more we'll tread those happy, carefree pathways, No more we'll meet thy sacred walls within, But tho' we close each well-thumbed book with sadness, We must go on; we finish now, but to begin.

Tune: Isle of Beauty

As the twilight softly gathers Folding earth in peace and rest, And each dreamer freed in slumber Follows on a boundless quest;
'Neath thy spell, our Alma Mater,
So may we be freed by truth,
Live each hope we've framed in schooldays, Weave in life the dreams of youth. Dark the pathway looms before us, Hard the road that we may tread; If we cling to early visions, Naught can fill our souls with dread. Dreams, then deeds - be this our watchword In our future, dark or bright, May our torch so clearly burning Gleam, a beacon in the night. When the fleeting years have vanished And our ways have parted grown, Oft we'll ponder mem'ry's pages For the loved days we have known. O those bye-gone trails to wander! O for youth's enchanted spell! But those ties no more will bind us

When we've said our last farewell.

Swiftly, happy hours grow old, And new charts we must unfold Of life's course to distant land. Guided by thy sturdy hand, We put out with unfurled sails, set free To the winds of destiny. Faithful pilot, thou wilt be Cherished in our memory.

CHORUS

Alma Mater, though we now must part, Mem'ries linger in the heart. Given strength for tasks, though grave, Send us forth with young hearts brave.

Friendships true we all have made, As each day we've worked and played. Now we leave thy shelt'ring walls, For the voice of Future calls. So we set our course on life's broad sea; May our goal Discovery be, That new truths, old bonds may free. Scarboro High, farwell to thee.

CLASS ODE

Tune: One Fleeting Hour

Our hearts, Alma Mater, are full tonight,
As we linger o'er memory's scroll,
And dwell on thy treasures of Friendship bright
With thy wealth of true Wisdom's gold.
We will cherish the hours in thy well loved walls,
Tho gone like the wing'ed dream,
And the gifts we have gained in thy bounteous halls,
We will give, as we hope to glean.

Now that One Supreme Gift still remains for us As the light of our life brighter grows, We must strive to be brave, sacrificing and just As our motto so plainly shows.
Then Give of Thyself in countless ways For this is the one great test.
Let us go forward now with steadfast gaze, Till we each have achieved our quest.

CLASS ODE

Tunc: "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen"

When sweet the misty dreams of Youth Bid pulses dance and voices sing, When rich enchantments lure us on And o'er our path their radiance fling, No clouds of sadness veil the sky As we in springtime's freedom reign, But when the careless days are gone Fond Mem'ry makes a sweet refrain.

Chorus

Farewell to all the golden days, The cherished home of toil and play The friendly hand, the kindly word, That helped us on the upward way.

And Thou, our motherland so dear, We dedicate our lives to thee, Thy shelt'ring hand has o'er us been, When fostering care we could not see. For all we are or e'er shall be, For freedom's treasures dearly bought, For all that makes our life so fair, We owe Thee thanks for this our lot.

Chorus

Then let us guard the vestal flames, Which on the shrine of freedom burn; That nations, crushed to earth by might, Adown the years with hope shall turn.
